NOTICE is hereby given to the Proprietors of the Township of Land lying on both sides Androscoggin River, in the County of Cumberland, granted to Samuel Livermore, Esq; and others, (the original Grantees, their Heirs, Assigns, or legal Representatives of the Township No. 2, granted to Nathaniel Harris, Esq; and others, who were Officers and Soldiers at the Reduction of Port-Royal) that at a Meeting of said Proprietors at the House of Samuel Livermore, Esq; Innholder, in Waltham, on the 23th Day of June Current; the said Proprietors voted and granted a Tax of Forty Shillings on each Right, to defray the Charges that have arisen or may arise on said Propriety, to be paid unto Leonard Williams, Esq; their Treasurer, on or before the 4th Day of August next; that unless said Tax be paid by the Time, the Right or Rights of such delinquent Proprietor or Proprietors will be sold, as soon as may be pursuant to Law.
Samuel Livermore } Committee &
Waltham, June 20, 1772. Leonard Williams } Assessors
Nath. Livermore. }

ON the Petition of the Freeholders and other Inhabitants of the Town of Windham in the County of Cumberland, setting forth that the Proprietors of said Township have laid out most of their Lands into Hundred Acre Lots, on some of which Improvements are making by Settlers; that though the Proprietors have made large Advances to help the Inhabitants to support public Worship and other Charges, yet large Sums are still wanting for supporting the Preaching of the Gospel, cleaning Roads and making them passable, the Charges whereof will be insupportable by the Inhabitants; that the said Hundred Acre Lots, save what is actually improved cannot be charged with any Sort of Taxes either by the Town or Proprietors, though cleaning and preparing Roads is principally for their Advantage: Therefore they apprehend it reasonable that the said Hundred Acre Lots (or such Part of them as are not under actual Improvement and so taxed in common Form) be subject to a reasonable Tax towards supporting the Charges of clearing and preparing Roads, supporting the Public Worship and other public Charges necessarily arising in said Town: That the said Petitioners several Years ago applied to the General Court for a Tax for the like Purposes, which was granted and ordered to be laid on all unimproved Lands for three Years; but by some Means or other the Assessment was not made; and knowing the Proprietors to be willing to join with the Petitioners for a Renewal of said Act: Therefore pray, that the Assessors or Selectmen of said Town for the Time being, may be authorized to assess on all the unimproved Lands in said Town of Windham, One Penny Half-penny per Acre Yearly, to be paid into the Treasury of said Town, to be applied to the Uses aforesaid.

In the House of Representatives, June 19. 1772.
READ and Ordered, That the Petitioners notify the Proprietors of the unimproved Lands in said Town of Windham, by publishing the Substance of this Petition in Edes & Gill's and Draper's News Papers three Weeks successively, to shew Cause on the second Wednesday of the next Session of the General Court why the Prayer should not be granted.
Sent up for Concurrence,
T. CUSHING, Speaker.
In Council, June 19. 1772. Read and Concurred,
T. FLUCKER, Secr'y.

By Capt. Elwell who arrived here Tuesday last from Falmouth, we have Public Prints which contain London News three or four Days later than the Articles we had last Week by the Mail-Ship,—among them are the following, viz.

LONDON, April 23, 1772.

THE Fleet that were to rendezvous in the Downs, supposed designed for the Baltic, are countermanded. Ships of War will be kept in readiness, in case any circumstance should arise to render such a measure necessary.

The Parliament will rise the 21st of May.

Jonathan Britain, who is now at Sherburne to take his trial at the next Sessions, declares in the most solemn manner, that he will seal the truth of his testimony relative to the fire at Portsmouth with his blood—that all he requires is a public hearing on that affair, and if he cannot prove every tittle of his information, he is content and will chearfully submit to any punishment he may thought to deserve—that if any Gentleman of character will ensure him a hearing either at the bar of the House of Commons, or in a public court of justice, he will deliver up all his papers in their hands.—But, a correspondent says, it is too evident that the present trial for petty forgeries is designed to suppress an enquiry into the great National Concern, the Portsmouth Conflagration.

It is said Lord North will be called up to the House of Peers.—That the Seals will be offered to Lord Camden, and if he declines to Lord Chief-Justice De Gray.

Extract of a Letter from the Hague, April 17.

According to the last advices from Copenhagen, the Attorney-General having drawn up the charge against the Queen Carolina Matilda, and delivered it to the Committee of Enquiry; and the Queen's defence being likewise produced, Commissioners were sent with both of them to Cronenburg to shew them to the Queen—her Majesty received them very amicably. ◊

Copenhagen, April 4. Last Tuesday Dr. Munter passed seven hours with Count Struensee, who then wrote a letter to the Queen. After he had finished it, he said to that Ecclesiastic, "Now we will take in hand some affairs of the greatest importance; I mean those of my poor soul." His conversations with the Officer of his Guard, always have the divine worship for their object. ◊

April 25. A letter from Copenhagen by yesterday's mail says, That the trial of the Queen is over: She is confined in the Castle of Aalbourg, to bear the title of Majesty and her children are declared legitimate. Her Majesty is allowed to take the diversions of the country under a guard, but not to cohabit with the King. Count Struensee and Count Brandt are found guilty; the former will be executed, and the latter banished. ◊

We are well assured, that notwithstanding the seeming slowness of a Great Personage to undertake the cause of an illustrious young lady of his own family, his first address to his Minister after receiving the news of her confinement was, "Save her honor, save her life, and do what you please with your master." ◊

The Queen of Denmark, we hear, by a letter which comes from the British Minister at Copenhagen, has never been once lost her fortitude in the midst of all the dangers that surrounded her; though a woman, and a very young one, she still maintained all the dignity of her rank, and determined to die at least with heroism, if she could not live with reputation. ◊

Extract of a letter from Copenhagen, April 21.

"On the 9th Sir Robert Keith went to Cronenburgh, and had a conference with her Majesty the Queen Carolina Matilda, and returned again Yesterday; since which, it is said, he is to return to London." ◊

Lord North, in a conversation which he lately had with a Great Personage, made use of the following expression, which deserves everlasting remembrance: "Peace, Sir, is the greatest blessing your people can enjoy, besides liberty and honor; and it shall be my perpetual study to secure it, while it can be obtained consistently with their freedom and their reputation."

Accounts from Corsica inform us of a most cruel war being carried on in that island between the French and miserable natives; a war resembling the hunting parties of savages on one side, and the brutal resistance of enraged beasts of prey on the other; who, as soon as those bloody conflicts are over, retreat again to their dens, caverns, and inaccessible fortresses.

The Day of Grace,
They who neglect and scorn, shall———
—— hard be harden'd, blind be blinded more;
That they may stumble on, and deeper fall.
MILTON.

THERE is a degree of depravity, to which individuals and communities sometimes arrive, that seems to extinguish not only every moral but every intelligent principle: Men lose all affection and attachment to things which are laudable, and yet wear a mask which screens from common observation and resentment; this, comparatively, is not surprizing; but when we behold a traitor to his species, with the genius and obstinacy of a devil, fulfilling his part; regardless of the universal observation, the curses and the vengeance of his injured brethren; dead to those rational sentiments and general feelings, so usual and prevalent in man; we can account for the prodigy in no way better, than by supposing that in wrath GOD hath sealed the eyes and hardened the heart, for the purposes of his own wisdom and glory.

When I first perused the last production of Lelius, I was inclined to think his designs were too apparent to be undiscovered, and his efforts were too feeble to do mischief. For when a man is so shameless as to make his cause appear with resplendent badges of ignorance, fraud and falshood, he becomes less capable of deception and injury; and more the object of scorn and derision, than of fear or solicitude. Being quite unambitious of the last word with Lelius, the Cobler, or Mr. H[V] and entertaining better sentiments of my countrymen, than to imagine them influenced by the despicable arts of the lowest cunning, I was much disposed to leave the three adventurers to share the emoluments of their labors, amid the enmity of the wise, the imprecations of the honest, and the scorn even of their companions in guilt: but recollecting that in this world, there are all degrees of intelligence, morality and vice, and therefore perhaps some may be deluded and carried away, even by such leaders, I am prompted to say a few things more,—peradventure for the benefit of my country!——tho' not hopeful of making any good impression on those who are candidates for the reproach of a world, the infamy of age, and the torments of an eternity.

Lelius tells us, that "IF the GOOD PEOPLE over whom governor H. presides, have no greater reason to complain of his administration, than that about which Marchmont has seen fit to exercise his talents, few will be willing to join in the clamour, and fewer still who would ever wish his removal." Does Lelius really believe that the GOOD people will not cry out against that administration, which is so irreconcileable with TRUTH, wisdom and INTEGRITY, that even a Lelius, hardy and shameless as he is, shrinks from his labor? Is it with Lelius or the GOOD PEOPLE of this land, a trivial matter for a governor triply bound by his duty, as a man and a ruler, and by the oath of GOD, to act for the welfare of those over whom he is ordained? is it a matter of small consideration for such a magistrate, professing himself a christian in a christian land, to pretend a zeal for public happiness, in order to serve a turn on an Election-day——to promise to do what he intends to evade, as sinister purposes and appearances may require;—to persist in the being of a necessity, while he (with his veracity as a man, his faith as a ruler, at stake) is unable, tho' publickly called upon, to give the lightest proof of its existence;—to hold forth the substance of an instruction from the King, when all that is produced is a ministerial epistle; shamelessly, "in the face of broad-eyed, watchful day," to avow this epistle, as a sanction for that serpentine conduct, to justify which, it has not the remotest tendency;—to labor and toil for hire to entrap the guardians of public liberty in the snares of ignominious vassallage and thraldom?——I say, are these matters, which good Subjects and GOOD people are to view with unconcern, or observe without a murmur?

But let Lelius be mindful, and let him consider it upon his pillow——There is yet "GREATER reason of complaint," and that his hypothetical IF gave no grace of truth or modesty to his observation. Lelius has already been told, that "it is not every day, SUCH A SUBTLE RULER, as our present, is exhibited in true colours": An elevated oppressor may make a trade for life of his oppression, and there may be none found to detect, or of ability to punish: he may by betraying the interests of a single town, make his way to a station more fitted for the destruction of a province: the fall of a province may give a rise sufficient for accomplishing the sacrifice of a new world: the reign of a tyrant—(shame to the morals & virtue of man!)—is seldom thought a time for complaint, conviction or punishment. Thousands become interested to obey, thousands to serve, thousands to protect: the few discern, the many gaze, and the lowest tremble: the deceivers and deceived, the oppressors and the oppressed, make so great a part of the community, that the wise and good, the noble and brave are often crushed and overwhelmed in the general calamity.

Every sensible man knows, that this is not a time to review or display in a true light Mr. H's[V] whole public conduct. Our business is to take such parts of his administration, as we may treat of with freedom and safety; to form a proper estimate of the man from his more open operations, and draw that useful knowledge which may serve to counteract or defeat his more secret, but not less dangerous and desperate machinations.

I have known this gentleman a Selectman of the Town, a Representative and a Counsellor: I have seen him sit in judgment, heard his speeches and his charges, and have now lived to see him in the chair of government. I have attended and marked him, & think I know him. As an individual, having never received any private injury from him, I bear him no enmity. As far as he is an adversary of my native country, I am his foe. Disappointed ambition (of which we have sometimes heard) has not moved me; for I never had an ambition, which Mr. H[V] had an opportunity to gratify; and at my present time of life and health, I ought to feel no higher ambition than that of fulfilling the more important duties. Being advanced in age & infirmity, I wish to see my country free and happy; that my children may partake as fair an inheritance as I received. These and similar motives actuate me in my present works, and I hope will lead me to those pursuits and labors, which may render the small residue of my days profitable to my species, to whom I bear much affection.

Believe me, my countrymen, that a love to the human race is a moral and religious duty. It is a great, and[a] too successful, art, which is often practised, to disseminate an aversion of man to man. More of this seed is sown, & more evils spring from it, than is generally apprehended. Disunion inevitably succeeds this aversion, till the divided many fall an easy prey to the compacted few. For this infernal purpose, the execrable WALPOLE propagated his accursed maxim—"EVERY MAN HAS HIS PRICE." For similar purposes the servile imitators of that odious prostitute have continued to inculcate like principles and doctrines: and whether carolled at a noisy riot, or retailed in Draper's paper, the same object is still ultimately in view.—To destroy all faith and confidence among men, that the subtle and rapacious may sooner subjugate the poor and innocent. This is the true LEVELING PLAN of the rich and powerful;—a plan that levels virtue with vice, benevolence with selfishness, and all that is good and great with all which is vile and despicable.——To oppose a project so pregnant of every moral and political evil, is a common duty. He who sneers at all public virtue, denies or ridicules the supposed existence of an affection for mankind, betrays that turpitude of heart, which characterised Satan in the garden of Eden:—he ought to be avoided as a pestilence.——Cultivate an affection for each other, and for the world; and let this love be fervent, and it will do mighty works. Oppose with bitterness all who go about to disunite the members of that great body—THE MULTITUDE. I bless GOD, that in early youth, I considered all men, as my brethren; and now, in the decline of life, if I have one predominant desire, next to the plaudit of MY CREATOR and my conscience, it is, that of having THE MANY to arise and call me blessed.

From a late LONDON Paper.

To the PRINTER.

SIR,

PRIDE & folly generally, some time or other, meets a just reward. An instance of this kind lately fell under my notice. One of our modern fine ladies, alias a farmer's daughter, was very desirous of dressing her hair in the tip of the present ridiculous mode. For want of better materials, she made a rowler of new hay, and placing it on her head, turned her hair up over it; after which the necessary quantity of powder, &c. &c. was puffed on, and she rose eminently superior to her butter-making sisterhood. Thus attired, forth she went exulting, to pay a visit to another fine lady of the same rank, who sold bread. On her arrival at the door, hung a baker's horse loaded with panniers. These obstructed her passage, and she had no other mode of entrance but to stoop, and go under the horse's neck. She did so; but when her head approached the chin of Rosinante, the effluvia of the hay made a sensible impression on his fancy. He therefore immediately fastened his teeth on that part of the towering structure whence the grateful odour came, and instantly dislodged the rowler of hay, together with a considerable quantity of the hair that covered it, to the no small pain, and greater mortification of the lady, whose head now appeared as destitute of ornament without side, as it really was of sense within.

I relate this anecdote, as a warning to that part of the creation, which nature has been so profuse in adorning with real comeliness and beauty, that they may see the folly of attempting to improve it, by ridiculous modes of dress, and the idle fopperies of fashion. The charms of genuine nature infinitely surpass those of art, and can receive no assistance from them.

PHILADELPHIA, June 18.

Saturday last arrived here the ship Jupiter, Capt. Ewing from Londonderry, in a short passage, who brought with him, and landed at New-Caſtle and this place, 430 paſſengers, all in good health. It is ſaid the high price of lands, and proviſions will induce great numbers to leave Ireland for America this year.

Captain Allen from Barbados, informs, that on the 17th of May the ſhip Cunny, Capt. Clap, from Cork and Madeira, with King's ſtores, for Barbados, ran aſhore on a place called Auſtend's Reef, which lies on the S. E. ſide of the Iſland, where the veſſel is loſt, but the people and beſt part of the cargo ſaved.

NEW-PORT, June 22.

Laſt Tueſday James Bud and Lemuel Guſtine, were apprehended and committed to goal in this town, on ſuſpicion of being concerned in counterfeiting and paſſing New-York and Jerſey paper money. About a week before, they, with ſome others, came from Nantucket in a ſloop, and anchored in Mackerel Cove, a little within our light-houſe, where theſe two left her and came to this town, and agreed with an engraver to cut them a plate for the eſcutcheon or border of a New-York forty ſhilling bill, for which purpoſe they cut out the printed part of the bill, and gave the engraver the other part cut in three or four pieces. But before the engraver had quite finiſhed the plate, he accidentally ſaw a New-York bill, which Bud had paſſed to another man, by which he diſcovered the real buſineſs he was about, and immediately informed Judge Hazard of the ſame. After Bud and Guſtine were examined, the ſloop was brought into this harbour, and being ſearched, upwards of fifty pounds of York and Jerſey money was found, including a ſmall ſum Bud and Guſtine had about them. They confeſſed but little on the examination: But it might be eaſily perceived that one Wills of Connecticut, one Smith of New-York, and a number of others were concerned in this affair.

The Money abovementioned conſiſts of ſixty twenty, ten and five ſhilling bills, principally of New York Currency, moſt of which are well known to be counterfeits; the Jerſey bills doubtful, and may probably be ſome of thoſe taken out of the treaſury when robbed. There is one five pound bill not ſigned: The forty ſhilling bill by which the plate was to have been made, is a true one.

By what could be drawn out of theſe men, there muſt be a very conſiderable Amount of New-York bills counterfeited to the Weſtward; as Bud confeſſed that he ſaw a great number lying on Wills's table the firſt time he went to ſee him.

ON the Petition of a Number of Proprietors of the Upper Housatonnock Property, shewing, That whereas in the Year 1722, they obtained a Grant from the General Court of this Province, of a certain Tract of Land, called the Upper Housatonnock Propriety, and a Committee was appointed by said Court to purchase said Lands of the Natives, and to transact all other Matters necessary to the forming said Propriety: And although there has been Search repeatedly made by the Petitioners, they are not able to find any Returns made of the Doings of said Committee to said Court.—And whereas a Warrant was issued from a Justice of the Peace to convene said Proprietors at their first Meeting according to Law, still there is no Record of said Warrant in the Proprietors Book, neither are the Petitioners able any where to find said original Warrant.—And as these Defects did not till of late Years appear, the Petitioners have ever since their first Incorporation as a Society, continued to call Meetings, to make Partitions of said Lands, and to transact all other Matters proper to be done in Proprietors.—And whereas the Petitioners are apprehensive that many Difficulties and Inconveniences may hereafter arise, greatly to the Prejudice of the Petitioners, by Reason of the abovementioned Defects—they therefore pray that the General Assembly would be pleased to take their Circumstances into Consideration, and according to their wonted Prudence, provide a Remedy against any future Prejudice arising to the Petitioners by Means of said Defects, by establishing and confirming the Doings and Records of said Proprietors in such Manner as to render them of equal Force and Validity, as if the Returns of the Doings of said Committee, and the Original Warrant for calling the first Meeting of the Proprietors were still to be found, &c.

In the House of Representatives, June 20, 1772.

ORDERED, That the Petitioners notify the other Proprietors within mentioned, by inserting the Substance of this Petition, and this Order thereon, in two of the Boston News-Papers, viz. Edes and Gill's, and Draper's, three Weeks successively; and also by posting the same on the Meeting-House Door in Great-Barrington, that they shew Cause, if any they have, on the second Wednesday of the next Session of this Court, why the Prayer thereof should not be granted.

Sent up for Concurrence.

In Council, June 20, 1772. Read and concurr'd.
